You may appeal against the decision to refuse a visa.
The rules on appeal against decisions on refusal of a visa are set out in:
the Code of Administrative Court Procedure (VwGO), under which an appeal can be filed.
Competent authority with which an appeal may be lodged:
Verwaltungsgericht Berlin, Kirchstr. 7, 10557 Berlin, Germany; Telefax: +49 (0)30 9014-8790 Information on the procedure to follow can be found at:
Internet: www.berlin.de/vg
An appeal must be lodged within:
one month of the issuance of the decision.
You may furthermore file a "remonstrance" with the mission abroad () within one month of the issuance of the decision, requesting that the decision be reviewed by the mission. If you choose to file a remonstrance you are still entitled to appeal the decision within the stated period. However,

You may furthermore file a "remonstrance" with the mission abroad (...) within one month of the issuance of the decision, requesting that the decision be reviewed by the mission. If you choose to file a remonstrance you are still entitled to appeal the decision within the stated period. However, doing so will cause the remonstrance proceedings to be terminated and the decision will be reviewed solely under the appeal. When filing a remonstrance, please state the reasons on which it is based and enclose any relevant supporting documents that were not included with the visa application. If the visa application is denied again upon review by the mission, you will be issued with a Remonstrance Notice, which you can then appeal by filing an action with the Administrative Court in Berlin.
